5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO.US

JOE PANTORNO, SPORTS EDITOR

I might only be 27 years old, but Jackie Robinson — one of the most influential sports figures and Americans ever — was a hero and role model of mine growing up on Long Island. Today, his family, foundation, and Major League Baseball will gather downtown to help kick off a yearlong celebration of the trailblazer on what would have been his 100th birthday as we remember the life of a man who shifted history right here in Brooklyn.

Father of dead Saudi sisters rejects suicide finding

1 The father of two young Saudi women whose bodies were found bound together in New York last October has dismissed a police assessment that they committed suicide and said marks he saw on their faces indicate they were beaten before their deaths. Tala Farea, 16, and Rotana Farea, 23, who had previously been living in Virginia, were found along the rocky Manhattan shore of the Hudson River with duct tape around their waist and ankles. A New York Police Department official has said they likely entered the water alive and were said to have preferred suicide over returning to Saudi Arabia. Their mother told detectives the day before the bodies were discovered that the Saudi Embassy in Washington had ordered the family to leave the United States because the daughters had applied for political asylum, the Associated Press reported in October, citing police.

Replay being considered after Saints ref blunder

2 The National Football League will consider rule changes, such as using "instant replay" technology, to avoid the type of officiating gaffe that likely cost the New Orleans Saints a spot in the Super Bowl, Commissioner Roger Goodell said on Wednesday. Goodell, speaking at his annual pre-Super Bowl news conference, said he understands the frustration felt by the Saints and that the league wants to address their concerns. "Whenever officiating is part of any kind of discussion postgame, it's never a good outcome for us. We know that, our clubs know that, our officials know that," said Goodell. "But we also know our officials are human. We also know that they are officiating a game that moves very quickly and have to make snap decisions under difficult circumstances and they are not going to get it right every time."

Polar vortex brings extreme cold temperatures to Chicago

3 A man walks along the lakefront as temperatures hovered around minus 20 degrees on Wednesday in Chicago. Businesses and schools have closed, Amtrak has suspended service into the city, more than a thousand flights have been canceled and mail delivery was suspended as the city copes with record-setting low temperatures. For more, see pages 3-4.

Trump to pols: Don't waste your time, deal needs wall

4 With little time to craft a deal over funding security operations on the U.S.-Mexico border, a bipartisan group of lawmakers was to meet in a public work session on Wednesday even as President Donald Trump maintained a hard line on constructing a massive wall. Congressional negotiators are up against a Feb. 15 deadline for agreeing on funding through Sept. 30 for several federal agencies, including the Department of Homeland Security and its border operations. Realistically, Republican and Democratic lawmakers have about a week to settle differences and still give the full House of Representatives and Senate time to debate and vote on any deal. A 35-day partial shutdown of agencies was triggered on Dec. 22 when Trump refused to sign funding bills that did not contain $5.7 billion for a wall along the southwestern U.S. border.

Jay-Z wins arbitrator fight in trademark case

5 Jay-Z has agreed to privately arbitrate a trademark and contract dispute with clothing company Iconix Brand Group Inc., his lawyers said on Wednesday, after enough African-American arbitrators became eligible to handle the case. Lawyers for Jay-Z asked a New York state judge to dismiss his Nov. 28 lawsuit in Manhattan to halt the arbitration related to his 2007 sale of the Rocawear clothing brand to Iconix for about $204 million. Jay-Z, whose legal name is Shawn Carter, had complained that arbitration would be unfair because only two of the more than 200 arbitrators proposed by the American Arbitration Association (AAA) identified as African-American and had no conflicts of interest. He said that lack of candidates left him with "no choice at all," constituted racial discrimination under New York law, and voided his earlier agreement to arbitrate with Iconix.

At least eight dead as deep freeze grips Midwest

More than a thousand flights out of Chicago were canceled as Midwest windchills plunged to as low as minus 42.

A blast of icy polar air brought dangerously low temperatures to the U.S. Midwest on Wednesday, causing at least three more deaths while halting the mail and forcing residents who pride themselves on their winter hardiness to huddle indoors.

Classes were canceled for Wednesday and Thursday for students across the Midwest, including Chicago, home of the nation's third-largest school system, and police warned of the risk of accidents on icy highways. Michigan said all state offices would remain closed through Thursday.

In a rare move, the U.S. Postal Service appeared to set aside its credo that "neither snow nor rain ... nor gloom of night" would stop its work as it halted deliveries from parts of the Dakotas through Ohio.

At least eight deaths related to extreme cold weather had been reported since Saturday in Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, according to officials and media reports.

Illinois State Police officers rescued 21 people who were stranded in a charter bus that broke down in subzero temperatures along Interstate 55 near Auburn after the vehicle's diesel fuel turned to gel in its engine, according to the agency.

In Detroit, a 70-year-old man was found dead on Wednesday on a residential street, a Detroit police spokeswoman said. About 15 miles south in the community of Ecorse, a former city councilman in his 70s and dressed only in sleepwear was also found dead on Wednesday, police there said.

A University of Iowa student was found dead outside a building at the campus early on Wednesday, the school said in a statement. The death of Gerald Belz, a pre-med student, was believed to be weather-related.

Streets in Chicago were nearly empty, with few people walking outside in the painfully cold air as temperatures hovered around minus 18 degrees Fahrenheit.

"It's terrible!" Pasquale Cappellano, a 68-year-old waiter, said as he smoked a cigarette while waiting outside for a bus on Chicago's North Side. "I gotta pick up my medication at Walgreens or else I wouldn't be out the door."

In Minneapolis, chilled to minus 14, Brian Pierce ventured out to "embrace the elements" and found himself watching cars slipping on the roads. "The roads sound really weird, it seems there's a lack of grip," he said. "And my teeth hurt."

Windchill temperatures in parts of the Northern Plains and Great Lakes plunged as low as minus 42 in Park Rapids, Minnesota, and minus 31 in Fargo, North Dakota, according to the National Weather Service (NWS). The frigid winds were headed for the U.S. East Coast later on Wednesday.

More than a thousand flights, close to two-thirds of those scheduled, were canceled on Wednesday into or out of Chicago O'Hare and Chicago Midway international airports, according to the flight tracking site FlightAware.

Midwest a giant iceberg as polar vortex arrives

Temps reached a low of minus 42 in Minnesota.

A blast of polar air brought record low temperatures to much of the U.S. Midwest on Wednesday, making conditions so unbearable that trash haulers stopped making pick-ups and mail carriers suspended deliveries.

Amazon HQ2 says no to union neutrality at Wednesday hearing

The company also announced a slew of initiatives in an effort to become good neighbors with Queens.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

A refusal by Amazon executives to say that they would remain neutral when it comes to unions sparked concerns among elected officials at the second New York City Council oversight hearing on Amazon HQ2 in Queens.

Council Speaker Corey Johnson asked Brian Huseman, Amazon's vice president of public policy, if the company would agree to neutrality if workers wanted to unionize.

"No, we would not agree to that," Huseman said. There are currently no Amazon workers who are in a union.

James Patchett, president of the NYC Economic Development Corporation, said this project is committed to working with building trades unions and 32BJ SEIU, a property services union, though there is no deal with these unions yet.

To many on the council and at the hearing, it wasn't enough. One crowd member was escorted out for yelling in opposition to how Amazon doesn't want its workers to unionize.

"I think you made the distinction somehow that because this is a headquarters, those people working in those buildings don't need representation, don't deserve to be in union. All workers should have the right to be in a union," said Council Member Jimmy Van Bramer, who represents Long Island City. "You are too big and too strong and too powerful."

The second oversight hearing on Amazon HQ2 in Queens was with the Committee on Finance with the goal to answer, essentially, if the city was getting adequate "bang for its buck" with the HQ2 deal, said Finance Chair Daniel Dromm.

According to an NYCEDC report, Amazon HQ2 will generate $27 billion in tax revenue for New York state, with $13.5 billion going to New York City specifically, over 25 years.

According to an NYCEDC report, Amazon HQ2 will generate $27 billion in tax revenue for New York state, with $13.5 billion going to New York City specifically, over 25 years. Amazon is getting $3 billion in subsidies from the city and state. Its HQ2 is expected to create 25,000 jobs by 2029 and 40,000 jobs by 2034.

But an independent report is needed, Council Speaker Corey Johnson said, that also calculates the costs of Amazon HQ2 to both Queens and the entire city. In total, officials say Amazon HQ2 is expected to bring 130,000 new people to New York City, "who need to be housed, educated, transported and protected," said Dromm. "How much will that cost?"

Amazon also announced a slew of initiatives meant to facilitate its relationship as a prominent neighbor to New Yorkers, including:

- Customer service jobs set aside for NCYHA residents at Queensbridge, Ravenswood, Woodside and Astoria Houses.
- Enrolling more than 130 city high schools into the Amazon Future Engineer program, which provides funding for computer education.
- Helping small Queens businesses by encouraging its workforce to shop local, especially for food.
- Partnering with local colleges to launch a Cloud Computing Certificate program, which the company says will help students learn skills for entry-level tech jobs at Amazon or other companies.

Americans now trust House Speaker Nancy Pelosi more than Trump. GETTY IMAGES

New poll gives Pelosi the trust edge over Trump

Trailing by seven points, most voters disagree with him on the border wall.

letters@metro.us

More American voters trust House Speaker Nancy Pelosi than President Trump to handle their major concerns, a new Quinnipiac poll has found.

Asked which leader was more trustworthy "on issues that are important to you," 49 percent of respondents said Pelosi; 42 percent said Trump. The results were sharply partisan — 88 percent of Republicans were with Trump, while 91 percent of Democrats were with Pelosi — and there was a gender gap: men favored Trump by six points, but Pelosi bested Trump among women by 14 points.

But in a potentially troublesome sign for the 2020 elections, independent voters picked Pelosi by 13 points: 49 percent to 36 percent for Trump.

The poll came after a monthlong government shutdown that has been bruising for Trump. Before Christmas, he refused to sign a continuing resolution to keep the government open until February unless it contained funding for his favored border wall. After nearly 800,000 federal workers missed nearly two paychecks, Trump relented, agreeing to open the government for three weeks without concessions for the wall, which Pelosi called "an immorality" for which she would not approve one dollar in funding.

The poll, released Tuesday, had more bad news for Trump. He has a 38 percent approval rating, down from 41 percent two weeks ago. Fifty-six percent of voters blame him and Republicans for the government shutdown, while 34 percent blamed the Democrats in Congress.

On the issue of border security, voters said they trusted the Democrats in Congress more than Trump, 50 percent to 41 percent. Asked whether they supported a border wall, 55 percent said no, 41 percent said yes.

And in stark contrast to Trump's hardline stances on immigration — from the Muslim ban to forced child separations at the Mexico border — 75 percent of voters said immigration is a good thing for the country, while only 14 percent said it was a bad thing.

Voters also rebuffed Trump's ban on transgender service members: 70 percent said that transgender people should be allowed to serve in the military, while only 22 percent said they shouldn't.

Bronx Zoo lets you seal it with a hiss this Valentine's Day

Shower your loved one with bugs and kisses with the zoo's Name-a-Roach promo.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

Cockroaches aren't just a sign that you're living in New York City. They can be a symbol of love — present or past, linked to happy memories or a bitter end — thanks to the Bronx Zoo Madagascar hissing cockroach promotion for Valentine's Day.

With Valentine's around the corner, the Bronx Zoo is once again letting lovers (or haters) symbolically name one of its more than 50,000 Madagascar hissing cockroaches currently in its Madagascar exhibit.

These roaches can reach up to four inches long, making them the world's largest roach species. They get their name from their characteristic hissing sound, made when they force air out of their "respiratory openings" on a segment of their body, and is often a defense mechanism.

This Valentine's Day, the Bronx Zoo's Name-a-Roach initiative also comes with the ability to upgrade your gift to include a roach beanie, mug and pin.

"The Bronx Zoo's Name-A-Roach promotion is a light-hearted, fun way to reach out to someone on Valentine's Day to let them know that you are thinking about them."
John F. Calvelli of the Wildlife Conservation Society

"The Bronx Zoo's Name-A-Roach promotion is a light-hearted, fun way to reach out to someone on Valentine's Day to let them know that you are thinking about them," said John F. Calvelli of the Wildlife Conservation Society in a statement. "Nothing lasts longer than a roach, so it could be sent as a symbolic gesture about how long your love will last or exactly the opposite."

The Bronx Zoo has been offering the opportunity to name a Madagascar hissing cockroach for Valentine's Day since 2011, and though past participants have dubbed roaches after an ex or mother-in-law (with presumably negative connotations), plenty of people have also named cockroaches after or inspired by loved ones.

"Thinking about the fact that there's a lil hissing cockroach roaming around the Bronx Zoo named 'Maximum Derek' [a reference to NBC show "The Good Place"] and all because my boyfriend loves me," one New Yorker shared on Twitter last year.

How to name a Bronx Zoo Madagascar hissing cockroach for Valentine's Day

Anyone around the world can participate in the Name-a-Roach promotion, according to the Bronx Zoo, by placing an order online at BronxZoo.com/Roach.

For a $15 donation, your gift recipient will get a printed certificate featuring the name chosen for your Valentine's Day roach. For $75, you can add in the Madagascar hissing cockroach beanie cap, mug and roach pin along with the certificate. For $55, you can choose various combinations of the "roachy merchandise" to create your perfect Valentine's Day gift.

These donations will help fund the Wildlife Conservation Society and the Bronx Zoo, and they're also an apt symbol for Valentine's Day, according to Calvelli.

"Some might say that love is like a roach — elusive, resilient, and sometimes very scary," he said.

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Utah man sues Paltrow for alleged ski slope 'hit and run'

The Oscar-winning actress is claimed to have slammed into him on a ski slope.

A Utah man has sued Oscar-winning actress Gwyneth Paltrow for $3.1 million, claiming she slammed into him on a ski slope in 2016, breaking four of his ribs and knocking him unconscious before skiing off.

Terry Sanderson, 72, filed a lawsuit on Tuesday against Paltrow in Utah state court over the alleged "hit and run ski crash" at the Deer Valley Resort in Park City.

Sanderson, a retired optometrist who said he has skied for more than 30 years, was heading down a beginner slope on Feb. 26, 2016, when he heard

"a hysterical scream" and was hit hard between the shoulder blades, he said at a news conference on Tuesday.

In court papers, Sanderson said he suffered "permanent traumatic brain injury" as a result.

A rep for Paltrow confirmed the accident had involved the actress but shrugged off the suit.

"This lawsuit is completely without merit. Anyone who reads the facts will realize that," Paltrow spokeswoman Heather Wilson said, declining to comment further about the incident.

Robert Sykes, the attorney representing Sanderson, said Paltrow violated a local ordinance requiring skiers to stop and help anyone injured in a collision.

"Gwyneth Paltrow was skiing out of control," Sykes told the news conference. "What Ms. Paltrow did that day was knock down Terry Sanderson, pick herself up, dust herself off and ski off without rendering any help."

Sanderson said he didn't remember the aftermath of his head hitting the packed snow and that he has had short-term memory loss ever since. REUTERS

Youngest Manson cult member Van Houten to face parole hearing

GETTY IMAGES

The youngest member of Charles Manson's murderous cult is set to ask California authorities on Wednesday to cut short the life sentence she is serving for her role in the gang's notorious 1969 killing spree.

Manson, who died in prison in 2017 at age 83, directed his mostly young, female followers — known as the Manson Family — to murder seven people in August 1969 in what prosecutors said was part of a plan to incite a race war between whites and blacks.

Follower Leslie Van Houten, who was 19 when the murders were committed and is now 69, will make her latest of nearly two dozen attempts at persuading the California Board of Parole Hearings to release her, the board said. She is being held at the California Institute for Women in Corona, California.

In recent years, the board has twice recommended that the authorities release Van Houten, but was overruled each time by former Gov. Jerry Brown, most recently last January.

If the board again recommends that she be paroled, the ultimate decision will rest with new Gov. Gavin Newsom after a review process that can take up to 150 days.

Van Houten was originally sentenced to death for fatally stabbing Leno and Rosemary LaBianca in their Los Angeles home on Aug. 10, 1969, but that conviction and sentence were overturned on appeal.

She was retried, convicted and sentenced to life in prison in 1978.

Among the other victims of the Manson Family that month was actress Sharon Tate, the pregnant wife of filmmaker Roman Polanski. She was stabbed 16 times by cult members.

Earlier this month, local media reported that the board recommended for parole another Manson follower, Robert Beausoleil, 71, who has served nearly half a century for the 1969 slaying of musician Gary Hinman. Newsom has not yet revealed his decision in that case.

Leg Pain & Cramps While Walking?

Pain while walking or jogging can be a sign of Peripheral Artery Disease (PAD), which if left untreated can cause severe pain, numbness, impotence, non-healing sores… even amputation.

- ☑ Leg pain while walking that stops after few minutes at rest
- ☑ Leg numbness or weakness
- ☑ Foot or toe wounds that won't heal
- ☑ Skin discoloration or shiny skin on the leg
- ☑ One leg or foot is colder than the other
- ☑ Hair loss on your legs and feet

Smokers and people with diabetes or hypertension are more at risk for PAD.

'El Chapo' decided 'who lives and who dies' as drug boss

Closing arguments are set for Thursday.

Joaquin "El Chapo" Guzman was someone who decided "who lives and who dies," a prosecutor said in closing arguments in the accused Mexican drug kingpin's trial in the United States.

"The government does not have to prove that he was the boss, or the only boss, or even one of the top bosses," Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrea Goldbarg told jurors, though she hastened to add that Guzman was "one of the top bosses, without a doubt."

"The government does not have to prove that he was the boss, or the only boss, or even one of the top bosses."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrea Goldbarg

Guzman's lawyers have claimed the cartel's real leader is Ismael "El Mayo" Zambada, who remains at large, and that their client was framed by Zambada.

Standing in front of a table piled with trial evidence including assault rifles and bricks of cocaine, Goldbarg took a calm, no-nonsense approach as she walked the jury in federal court in Brooklyn through the charges against Guzman one by one.

Guzman, 61, was extradited to the United States in January 2017. The 10 criminal counts include engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise, drug trafficking and money laundering conspiracy, and could carry a life sentence if he is found guilty.

Goldbarg's summation capped an exhaustive government case that spanned 10 weeks of testimony from more than 50 witnesses, including law enforcement officials and former associates of Guzman who are cooperating with the U.S. government after striking plea deals.

Guzman's lawyers have aggressively sought to undermine the cooperators' credibility in their cross-examinations, something Goldbarg addressed head-on.

"These witnesses were criminals," she said. "The government is not asking you to like them."

However, she said, their testimony was corroborated by intercepted phone calls, text messages and letters from Guzman, as well as accounting ledgers seized in a raid on one of his safe houses.

"You know these cooperating witnesses are telling the truth because you heard the same thing from the defendant's own mouth," she said.

The intercepted communications showed Guzman plotting drug shipments, dealing with corrupt government officials and, sometimes, ordering his adversaries killed.

"He's the one who decides who lives and who dies," Goldbarg said.

Goldbarg then moved methodically through the evidence linking Guzman to each of a series of drug seizures by authorities in the 1990s and 2000s. Her argument was expected to last the rest of the day.

Guzman called only one witness in his defense on Tuesday. One of his lawyers was expected to deliver his closing argument on Thursday.

I AM NOT A ROBOT!

I'm tired of trying to access a site online and having to prove I'm not a robot. Of course, the "proof" is picking out pictures that have street signs, or storefronts or other choices. If you can't choose correctly on the first try, you're given a few other chances. There's always the possibility you won't ever make the right choice, and so, can't access the site.

I want to know why choosing the right number of street sign pictures proves I'm not a robot? And, why does it matter if I AM a robot? I'm sure if I were one, I'd have an easier time picking the right number of signs!

WALMART SELF-CHECKOUT

I was in Walmart yesterday ready to check out when I noticed half the self-checkout registers were down. When I asked an employee what was wrong, she told me they were being removed because people love to steal. I found using the self-checkouts fast and convenient. It beat waiting in a long line. It lowered your grocery bill because Walmart needed fewer cashiers. Now it's back to waiting in endless lines. Why do people have to ruin everything?

HELP THE HOMELESS

Most of the country will be experiencing record-breaking chills over the next few days, and no one will be affected by this as much as those who do not have a home. It is extremely important that those who are in need find shelter from the cold; any help can go a long way. Make sure to call 9-1-1 if you see anyone in need of help as the temperatures begin to drop.

Please remember to send your Humbles to humble@metro.us. These submissions can be acts of gratitude, positivity or kindness that you have seen throughout the day.

Aries If you make suggestions, you'll gain support that will lead to positive change. Attending business meetings, getting together with friends or something special for a loved one is favored.

Taurus Follow through with your plans. Talk less and do more. Determination and discipline will help you finish what you start. If you can't say something nice, be quiet.

Gemini Consider what you want, and then take action. A relationship will take a positive turn if you share your thoughts and feelings and listen attentively.

Cancer What someone says will change your perspective regarding how you do your job or take care of your responsibilities. Take note of what others do, but follow your heart.

Leo If you don't like your current situation, do something about it. A change will do you good. Open up a conversation that will clarify what exactly you want.

Virgo A problem at home needs to be addressed quickly to avoid a scene or unwanted change. Offer alternatives, along with common sense and incentives.

Libra You'll come up with a good idea, but not everyone will support what you want to do. Have confidence and move forward with your plans. A personal change looks promising.

Scorpio Taking a short trip or attending a trade show, seminar or business meeting will lead to new beginnings. Take your time and do things your way. A creative outlet will ease stress.

Sagittarius You'll come up with a plan that shouldn't be ignored. Put some thought, muscle and initiative into getting your scheme up and running. Celebrate with a loved one.

Capricorn Make a change for the right reasons. Discuss your plans with someone you respect. Much can be accomplished if you do your own thing. Walk away from anyone using pressure tactics.

Aquarius Make a positive change. Working for or volunteering to help a cause you believe in will bring favorable results and forge valuable connections. Make your move and follow through with your plans.

Pisces If you get together with someone you respect, you'll be offered sound advice regarding a personal situation. Walk away from indulgent matters. Take better care of your health. EUGENIA LAST

Kick it off

Share the excitement of Super Bowl Sunday at these watch parties.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

With the aura of a decommissioned racetrack, Houston Hall will be a lively spot for football fans. Starting at 6 p.m. through the end of the game, the beer open bar includes every brew on tap while the game plays on 12-foot screens. 222 W. Houston St., West Village, eventbrite.com

Head north to one of our favorite beer gardens, Bierstrasse in Harlem, where $30 gets you an open bar of beer, wine and well drinks from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Watch the game in their heated garden with four large projectors plus four TVs. 2346 12th Ave.,eventbrite.com

Tables at Bohemian Hall and Beer Garden are first come, first served, with additional tables added in the main hall. The game will be shown on a large TV in addition to eight screens inside the restaurant, with specials starting an hour before kickoff: 50-cent wings, $4 wieners, $8 nachos, $4 mugs of beer, $14 pitchers and $5 house wine. 2919 24th Ave., Queens, bohemianhall.com

It might be too cold to grill outdoors, but that's not stopping The Cannibal from throwing a whole roast pig feast in honor of Super Bowl LIII. Your $75 ticket also comes with unlimited draft beer and snacks like eggplant parm fritters, deviled eggs, pretzel balls with beer cheese, potato salad and tons more. Watch the game on three large TVs and a projection screen. 111 E. 29th St., eventbrite.com

The ultimate spot for Patriots fans will be Professor Thom's — they haven't released their game-day specials, but if you're a New England fan, this is where you want to be. 219 Second Ave., professorthoms.com

In honor of Super Bowl 53, drink unlimited beer or wine throughout the game for $53 at East Village gastropub Boulton & Watt. The game will be shown on seven TVs throughout the bar, and a selection of game-day specials will also be available a la carte. Reserve by calling 646-490-6004. 5 Ave. A, boultonandwattnyc.com

New Asian-American restaurant Brooklyn Chop House offers a less rowdy viewing spot, with four large TVs and projection screens; parties of 8-10 can also reserve a private booth with a TV. The full menu will be available (pastrami dumplings, chicken satay, Peking duck tacos) as well as $10 top-shelf mixed drinks at the bar all day. 150 Nassau St., Financial District, brooklynchophouse.com

Watch the game with the barbecue you can't cook in this weather at Virgil's Real BBQ, which has the largest projection screen in Times Square and numerous TVs throughout the restaurant. The Pigskin Platter ($59.95) is enough for two with spare ribs, brisket, pulled pork, chicken, cornbread and two sides, plus five Miller Lite beers. The bar will also offer specials like $15 Coors Light pitchers and $6 shots. 152 W. 44th St.,virgilsbbq.com

Gowanus bar and taqueria Parklife is setting up two screens in its dining room for a free Super Bowl watch party. RSVP at Eventbrite and arrive early to grab a seat — doors open at 5 p.m. 636 Degraw St., Brooklyn, parklifebk.com

Nashville-inspired restaurant and bar Printers Alley will be showing the Super Bowl on all of its 21 TVs. Instead of its usual game-day specials, $70 gets you all in with an open bar and unlimited wings. 215 W. 40th St., Times Square, printersalleynyc.com

Pick your team and get a free shot when they score at Bar Nine. They'll be showing the game on a large projection screen (plus 10 TVs) with giveaways all night from Fireball Whiskey and Modelo Beer. Your $45 includes an open bar during the game (beer, wine, well drinks) and complimentary buffet during halftime. 807 Ninth Ave., Hell's Kitchen, bar9ny.com

Spend your Super Sunday at Sweetwater Social, where a $125 includes premium open bar starting an hour before kickoff, a feast of carving stations (prime rib, pork, turkey) plus wings, nachos, sliders and more. Seats are guaranteed, and an 8-foot projector screen plus five TVs mean you won't miss a moment. 643 Broadway, drinksweetwater.com

West Village whiskey bar The Spaniard will be showing the game on two TVs and a 5.5-foot projector screen. Slide into a booth or gather your crew to book the coveted corner bar with a dedicated bartender and server. Order a la carte or family-style party platters of charbroiled oysters, buffalo duck wings and more. A portion of proceeds from the night benefit Charity:Water. 190 W. 4th St., thespaniardnyc.com

The Spaniard.
RICH WADE

There's no cover to watch the game at Brooklyn Bowl in Williamsburg, where all 14 TVs will be showing the game with sound. There's the option of a $40 all-you-can-eat Super Bowl Buffet starting at 5 p.m. through halftime including wings, mac and cheese balls and pulled pork with cornbread, plus $6 bottle/$22 pitcher of Coney Island Pilsner or Brooklyn Lager all night. 61 Wythe Ave., Brooklyn, brooklynbowl.com

Hit up the Sanctuary Hotel's upscale lounge Tender for Super Bowl LIII, with nine TVs and three projector screens and a Touchdown Package for $50 per person that gets you a pitcher of beer, appetizer platter and, best of all, guaranteed seating. (Note: You'll need to find a +1 since they're two-person tables.) 130 W. 47th St., Theater District, tendernyc.com

Sports lounge Slate will show the game on a 20-foot HD screen along with the 40 TVs spread across its two floors. Entry is $5, table packages start at $200, plus specials like $5 Bud Lights and $6 shots. 54 W. 21st St., Flatiron, slate-ny.com

The spacious back room of Humboldt & Jackson hosts sports watch parties on their 120-inch screen all the time, but for the Super Bowl they're sweetening the deal: The $20 ticket gets you all-you-can-eat wings and guarantees you a seat. 434 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, eventbrite.com

Kick it at Caribbean oasis Wicked Willy's, where the game will be screened on a massive 20-foot projector, with a three-hour premium open bar (well drinks, beer, wine, select liquors) plus unlimited wings and guaranteed seats for $69. Stick around for karaoke after the game. 149 Bleecker St., Greenwich Village,eventbrite.com

Sports hot spot the Bowery Beer Garden has more than 50 TVs with tons of seating and 40 brews on tap and bottles. Pregame with a one-hour open bar from 5:30-6:30 p.m. (beer, wine, champagne), with prizes every quarter and specials. $20 cover, 93 Bowery, eventbrite.com

At Flatiron Hall, every brew on tap is included in its open beer bar starting at 6 p.m. until the end of the game. Watch the action on a projector screen or TVs throughout the party hall in the cellar, with plenty of communal tables. 38 W. 26th St., eventbrite.com

Head upstairs at the Financial District's barbecue spot Route 66 Smokehouse for an unlimited buffet of tailgating favorites and open bar (beer, wine, select liquor) until halftime, plus a whole pig roast. $50, 79 Pearl St., eventbrite.com

The open bar at Beer Authority New York is more than just suds. For $100, get reserved seats and a selection of drafts and domestic bottles, premium liquor and wine, plus a buffet (through halftime) of tailgate fare like mini quesadillas, bacon-wrapped hot dogs, wings and sliders. Or go buffet-only for $40. 300 W. 40th St., eventbrite.com

At the swanky "Man Men"-inspired 5th & Mad, 18 TVs and two large projector screens will keep you in the action. The $10 ticket includes your first drink; bottle service starts at $300. Specials include $1 wings and $30 buckets of domestic beers, and with two floors there's plenty of room to spread out. 7 E. 36th St., Midtown, 5thandmad.com

Will Maroon 5 actually play a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute?

Will the rockers be performing "Sweet Victory"?

ANDREW HUSBAND
drew.husband@metro.us

Will the band pay tribute to the Nickelodeon character? GETTY IMAGES

The New England Patriots are going to the Super Bowl for the third straight year, much to the jubilation of fans and annoyance of and detractors. Ignoring the politics of the NFL for a moment, however, a recent Twitter tease by this year's halftime show performers, Maroon 5, has fans of the acclaimed Nickelodeon cartoon SpongeBob SquarePants excited. Why? Because Maroon 5 might play a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute to memorialize the late Stephen Hillenburg.

About 32 seconds into Maroon 5's Super Bowl halftime show teaser, footage from Hillenburg's SpongeBob SquarePants is briefly cut into the mix of performance footage and crowd shots. Otherwise, neither the teaser nor the band makes explicit mention of the character's presence. More than anything, it just seems like a random bit of extra footage that just feels out of place.

If you've been following the hugely popular Change.org petition calling for a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute, however, then Maroon 5's tease means a great deal more. As of this writing, more than 1.1 million people have signed Israel Colunga's petition, which "[calls] for Sweet Victory to be performed" during the customary Super Bowl LIII musical performance. (The petition is aiming for 1.5 million signatures.)

No one from the NFL, Nickelodeon or Maroon 5 has explicitly stated that the halftime show will somehow incorporate "Sweet Victory." Yet aside from the band's tweet, the relevant parties have been hinting at something since Colunga's petition first went viral. The official Twitter account for the Super Bowl LIII venue, Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta, acknowledged the petition with a SpongeBob GIF. At around the same time, Nickelodeon made the entire "Sweet Victory" sequence from the "Band Geeks" episode available to watch on YouTube.

Again, none of this actually means Maroon 5 will be performing all or some of "Sweet Victory" during their halftime performance. But if they do decide to honor the petition's request to give Hillenburg a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute, then it will surely be one of the more memorable internet-inspired performances in recent memory.

Mads Mikkelsen on fighting a brutal blizzard to shoot 'Arctic'

The Danish actor also talks about his new Netflix film, "Polar."

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

Mads Mikkelsen has already had a very busy—and cold—start to 2019.

Over the last week, the Danish actor's film "Polar," Netflix's adaptation of Victor Santos' neo-noir comic book, was released on the streaming service, while his upcoming performance in "Arctic" really needs to be seen to be believed. More on that later, though.

When it comes to "Polar," Mikkelsen takes on the role of renowned assassin Duncan Vizla, effortlessly switching from brooding to intensely violent with aplomb.

"There is a certain film noir to him," Mikkelsen tells Metro. "He's retiring, he's lethal, but not a bodybuilder, he's just heavy and tired. There are two worlds here. There's the film noir world and then there is this colorful world of other characters."

Juxtaposing these two worlds, and making sure that the film honored the beloved source material, was something that Mikkelsen, who also produced Polar, and the rest of the creative team worked tirelessly to perfect. Especially when it came to the unique color palette of the graphic novels.

"It was tricky when we had to imagine some of the other characters who were like ten times bigger than some of the other characters physically," says Mikkelsen. "Obviously that's a trick you can get away with in a graphic novel. So we had to figure out how to give the characters an edge that had the same feel."

Mads Mikkelsen stars in Netflix's "Polar." NETFLIX

"The graphic novels are amazing. I just love them," he adds. "The red, white and black colors, the brutality of them, the exploitation kind of feel to them and the film noir. I just think they were brilliant."

Shooting "Polar" was a stroll in the park compared to "Arctic," which sees Mikkelsen play a man stranded in an icy wasteland waiting for rescue, only for the intended helicopter to crash when it arrives, leaving him with just hours to try and get its injured pilot and himself to safety.

"It was insane, madness," says Mikkelsen regarding the shoot, which consisted of just a small movable crew. "The conditions you see are the ones we went through. You can't have too many props and too many costumes in a situation like that.

"We had to move fast and quick. If there was a blizzard, we had to be able to move within two minutes."

The conditions were so brutal that its 30 day shoot was reduced to just 19, meaning each day devoted to filming had to be twice as long. Mikkelsen admits that, by the end of each day, he couldn't even "walk any more."

The frigid temperatures were very real in "Arctic." BLEEKER STREET

"It just became more and more brutal. But God is the main character," says Mikkelsen. "The weather and the landscape, they were our biggest obstacle and also our biggest friend. Because of all the freebies it gave us. You just can't create that with money."

Not that Mikkelsen could ever truly appreciate just how incredible the locations would look on film. "I tell you, I don't think I had the energy to imagine how it was looking," he recalls. "I was just basically like, 'Left foot. Okay. Now right foot."

Ultimately, though, Mikkelsen doesn't see "Arctic" as just a survival film.

"Of course, on the surface, it is a survival film," Mikkelsen explains. "But what we're addressing on a different level is there's a big difference between surviving and being alive."

"Being alive takes at least one more human being in your close vicinity," he adds. "In many ways, she is his savior as well. She's making him give up that base camp dwelling and go out and live life. They depend on each other to stay human."

"Arctic" is in select theaters on Feb. 1. "Polar" is now on Netflix.

Steve Gunn on paying respects to your influences, the Misfits included

We sat down with Steve Gunn to talk about his excellent new album "The Unseen In Between" and some of his earliest influences.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

Musician Steve Gunn is keeping the flame burning as one of Americana's last true outsider journeymen. Over 10 years, Gunn has built up a rich catalog of beautiful folk songs that touch on the delicacies of everyday life with adventurous guitar playing that places him in the company of some of the best working today. Gunn's excellent new album, "The Unseen In Between," is out on Frion Matador Records, and we got the chance to talk to him ahead of his world tour.

Your guitar playing gets a lot of notice in a lot of reviews. As it should. But I've always found your lyrics fascinating. They are so vivid in their imagery, especially on the new album. They also pull off the great trick of feeling like they are etched into stone and not tied to a specific time period. Is that something you try to be conscious of in the writing process?

I think so! Now that I think about it, in retrospect. As a songwriter, I am really influenced by art and poetry and also folk tradition. I like to meld all of those things together and not pin down the imagery to a certain object or present time. It's just the way I work, I think. I tend to think about a lot of things when I write a song. Usually, I try to think of the thematic ideas and then use the descriptions within that instead of speaking from a singular experience. I certainly address some personal issues on the record. But, lyrically, I like to keep it not super, super specific. I'd like to try that as an exercise someday. Some songs that I've written, people are like, "This doesn't make any sort of sense. What is the story or the context?"

"I try to think of the thematic ideas and then use the descriptions within that instead of speaking from a singular experience."

and I'm like "I'd rather keep that to myself." I think with this record, it's a bit more introspective than my other records.

You've talked a lot about gaining inspiration from free jazz musicians like Sun Ra. I was so surprised to see that you recently released a Misfits cover. Was punk also a gateway for you to get into more rebellious music?

It did. Thinking about it in retrospect, when you're trying to explain or even just think about the signposts in your life, for me as a musician I think about when I was young, my parents and the area where I grew up — these are things that I never really considered until people started asking me "what is your musical history and how did you become the musician that you are?"

When I was really young, my parents were really into music. I also had an older sister which I think was very key for me when it came to discovering music. She was an outlet for me and I would just borrow stuff from her constantly. I almost vicariously started experiencing music through her. She would go to these concerts and I would ask about them. I started emulating her and her friends and going to concerts at like 13 years old. Then, I kind of had an exploratory sensibility about music. The more I played the more I wanted to know about other kinds of music. It wasn't until after I was graduating from high school that I started learning about jazz and blues music. Shortly after that, I was discovering all of these musicians who were incorporating all of these different styles like Indian classical, jazz, and all kinds of stuff. When I moved out of my parents' house, I just kind of met all of these people who were older and started going to record stores. That's when everything opened up. I was befriending people who were, for the lack of a better word, just deep music appreciators. ... That's when everything started informing me as a musician and as a music nerd, I guess.

You can catch Steve Gunn at Bowery Ballroom this Friday.

Drug Companies Fear Release Of New $2 Sex Pill For Older Men

Men in clinical trial see huge boost in desire, strength of erections, and sexual activity without side effects.

NEW YORK - It's hard to believe that in America today an affordable pill that could improve the sex lives of millions of men is in danger of being yanked from the shelves. And it's just because big drug companies fear for their profits.

The pharmaceutical industry is desperately trying to stop shipments of the remarkable new "JackedUp" pill.Big Pharma is worried because men are reporting increased sex drive, stronger erections and more stamina - all without the side-effects and $40-per-pill price tag associated with drugs like Viagra. Clinical results show men feel these benefits within just a few weeks of taking JackedUp's active ingredient.

The pill, made for men over 50, was released early last month. Despite Big Pharma's efforts, sales have already exceeded expectations.

Exciting Benefits

There are very good reasons why sales are booming and drug companies want it gone. Apart from costing just two dollars per daily dose, the clinical results confirm JackedUp's active ingredient is very impressive. It greatly boosts a man's ability to get and keep erections. Stamina during sex also improves.

The product also has a unique ability to help men feel more passion, desire, and sex drive. These impressive benefits come from boosting testosterone levels by up to a whopping 193%. Doctors are astounded by its effects.

Why do drug companies want this pill stopped? Since the "JackedUp" pill is natural, drug companies can't patent it (like they did with Viagra) and make big profits. Plus, if you're over 50 and suffering from low sex drive, decreased stamina and inability to perform, low testosterone is the biggest factor. If you can safely boost your testosterone, you won't need their expensive pills. That's the very reason big business is trying to have it pulled from the shelves.

"If you're over 50 and suffering from low sex drive, decreased stamina and inability to perform, low testosterone is the biggest factor. Drug companies do NOT want men to know about this afforable new pill..."

Strong Clinical Results Worry Big Pharma

Recent clinical trials on JackedUp's active ingredient have made the drug companies more desperate. The trial results were published in major medical journals, and doctors are now recommending JackedUp to patients.

The testing was done on men 40 – 65 years old, and the results were remarkable. The men who took the active ingredient in JackedUp reported major improvements in their sex lives. Their ability to get and keep erections went up by over 200%. Libido and sex drive surged. Even staying power and stamina during sex more than doubled!

Head of product development, Dave McNeill, said the big drug companies weren't worried at first. "They didn't care because the active ingredient can take a few weeks before many men really feel the benefits. But these awesome clinical trials really got their attention. They're learning A LOT of men will wait a few weeks if it means avoiding negative side effects and saving money."

How It Works

The "JackedUp" pill works by helping older men produce more testosterone. It doesn't force dangerous fake testosterone into your body like injections do. Instead, it works with your body to produce testosterone naturally. And the results have been extraordinary. It's like your body reboots itself to feel like it did in the prime of your life.

Initial Users Are Thrilled...And Worried

"JackedUp has been awesome for my sex drive and performance! I'm worried it may not be available in the future. The idea that it may be taken away just to secure some big drug company's profits is very frustrating."

- Rob H., 49 years old, Colorado Springs, CO

"My wife and I were both sexually vibrant until I had prostate cancer. After my surgery we tried everything my doctor recommended but nothing worked. Within a few weeks of taking JackedUp, everything has been functioning beautifully and we've been riding high ever since!"

- Ken S., 78 years old, Phoenix, AZ

Doctors Speak Out

Drug companies are also concerned that doctors are now recommending JackedUp. The active ingredient has strong clinical results and lacks the side effects seen in current drugs on the market. This makes it an easy option for doctors to suggest.

Dr. Laguna-Bedia, a specialist in internal medicine says, "A lot of men think their lack of interest and inability to perform are simply parts of aging. This is just not true. JackedUp can help these men regain a healthy appetite for sex and the physical ability to perform."

Big Pharma Worried: Older men are having better sex after taking the newly released $2 pill called JackedUp. Clinical trials show active ingredient triggers surge in desire, strength of erections, and sexual activity in older men.

"JackedUp works by boosting key male hormones without side effects. The benefits of these hormones to sexual health are well known, but they actually do more than that. Men also report more energy, less body fat and higher motivation," said Dr. G. Pereira, a renowned surgeon in Florida.

Dr. Jacob Moss notes, "I recommend JackedUp if you're struggling with getting and keeping erections or low libido. It's also a great option for men who want to last longer and have more control over when they orgasm."

Special Opportunity for Our Readers

Drug companies are fighting hard to get rid of this product. This is making inventory disappear fast. Thankfully, a special discounted supply has been reserved for Metro New York readers. But only for those who call within the next 48 hours.

This is the best opportunity to try JackedUp risk-free with their 100% results guarantee.

A Regional Order Hotline has been set up for local readers to call. This gives all men an equal chance to try JackedUp.

Starting at 6:00 am today the order hotline will be open for the next 48 hours. All you have to do is call TOLL FREE 1-888-414-0179 and the company will do the rest.

Due to the possibility of JackedUp being pulled from the shelf, phone lines are often busy. If you call and do not immediately get through, please be patient and call back. Current supplies of JackedUp are limited, and callers that don't get through to the order hotline within the next 48 hours will be forced to wait for more inventory to be produced. This can take as long as 6 weeks.

THESE STATEMENTS HAVE NOT BEEN EVALUATED BY THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION. THIS PRODUCT IS NOT INTENDED TO DIAGNOSE, TREAT, CURE OR PREVENT ANY DISEASE. ALL DOCTORS MENTIONED ARE REMUNERATED FOR THEIR SERVICES. ALL CLINICAL STUDIES ON JACKEDUP'S ACTIVE INGREDIENT WERE INDEPENDENTLY CONDUCTED AND WERE NOT SPONSORED BY THE MAKERS OF JACKEDUP.

5 Things to do in Miami Beach

As soon as you cross the bridge to Miami Beach, you'll realize very quickly that there's a lot to see and do.

Fodor's Travel

In order to keep you from being overwhelmed and help you plan your trip, we've assembled a list of five of our favorite things to do in Miami Beach. Among them: well-known tourist hot spots and local hideouts; nightlife that'll spike your adrenaline; museums and artwork that will astound and humble you, and of course plenty to eat (and drink) in between those activities.

Here are five great things to do in Miami Beach.

1. Groove out to some reggae at Purdy Lounge, a low-key dance club with some of Miami's best DJs spinning Caribbean music as well as old-school hip-hop. Or drop by for their well-known "Chocolate Sundays," which feature a blender of music genres, cheap drinks, and the weekly Drunken Spelling Bee.

2. Take a tour of the Historic Art Deco District by foot or bike and see more than 800 stunning architectural landmarks from the 1920s and beyond. You can walk yourself through the history or you can take a narrated tour and hear the interesting stories behind the first contemporary neighborhood to be recognized by the National Register of Historic Places.

3. Miami Seaquarium, just minutes from downtown Miami, is the place to see dolphins fly, fearsome moray eels lurk in coral reef caverns, and where shimmering schools of exotic fish dance through underwater seascapes. It's also the only place where you will see the graceful beauty of a Pacific white-sided dolphin and the incredible power of a three-ton killer whale.

4. Stay at Circa 39, located right in the center of Miami Beach, and just minutes away from a number of craft breweries, the trendy arts district, and numerous live music venues., Once you've ventured into the city, kick back and relax with a rum cocktail by the pool at Wunderbar and lounge in the highly instagrammable WunderGarden.

5. Order a croque monsieur and a salad with house speciality vinaigrette at La Sandwicherie, a small sandwich bar that packs a punch with its genuine-tasting French food and its fresh smoothies. Some regard this dive as the best sandwich shop in all of Florida. ROBERT COCANOUGHER

Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta is ready to host Super Bowl LIII on Sunday, Feb. 3, when the Los Angeles Rams will play the New England Patriots. It's the third time the Bowl will be held in the ATL — the city hosted Super Bowl XXVIII in 1994, and Super Bowl XXXIV in 2000.

Mercedes-Benz Stadium stands in place of Georgia Dome, the Falcons' home from 1992 to 2016. The facility features a retractable roof with triangular translucent panels. When opened, they are designed to create the illusion of a bird's wingspan.

After hosting the Super Bowl, the NCAA announced that Mercedes-Benz Stadium will hold the men's college basketball Final Four tournament in 2020.

The facility is considered one of the best stadiums in the country. That's why it holds a record for attendance during an MLS regular season game. On March 11 of last year, Atlanta United played D.C. United at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in front of 72,035 spectators, setting the record for the largest crowd in MLS history.

Jackie Robinson at 100: New York City, Major League Baseball celebrate

Jackie's daughter, Sharon, and president of Jackie Robinson Foundation reflect on the icon's 100th birthday on Thursday.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Thursday will mark what would have been the 100th birthday of Jackie Robinson and a yearlong celebration is ready to get underway.

As one of the most influential men in American history, who broke Major League Baseball's color line in 1947 with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Robinson's life will be observed and celebrated throughout 2019 in efforts spearheaded by his daughter, Sharon Robinson, and the Jackie Robinson Foundation.

"I think it's amazing and I love it," Robinson told Metro. "We've done a lot of hard work ... You work hard to keep his name out there and [an] understanding on who he was."

On Thursday night, the Museum of the City of New York and the Jackie Robinson Foundation will help kick off those celebrations as an exhibit, "In the Dugout with Jackie Robinson," which will open featuring never-before-seen photographs, home movies, and memorabilia from Jackie's life.

The schedule of events in 2019 will serve as an extension of Jackie Robinson Day, celebrated annually by Major League Baseball every April 15 since 2004, and will culminate with the opening of the Jackie Robinson Museum in downtown Manhattan in December.

"We're really excited that the stars lined up this year and we're able to celebrate Jackie's 100th birthday and kick off this celebration," Jackie Robinson Foundation President Della Britton Baeza said. "It's an exciting year that will preview our museum."

It's a grand way to celebrate the life of the Baseball Hall of Famer, who died in 1972, which provides a change of pace for his daughter.

"When you lose someone, you don't know what to do with their birthday initially," Robinson said. "My dad was the first person I lost like that ... I wanted to keep it private."

"But then every time his birthday would come up, I would find myself crying unhappy that I hadn't planned anything and we weren't recognizing it properly."

Robinson, a published writer, did make an exception in 1979 on her father's 60th birthday, when she held a gospel concert at the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine.

Jackie will forever be known as the first black man to partake in organized professional baseball since 1884, when a "gentleman's agreement" among major-league owners not only barred Moses Fleetwood Walker from playing with the Toledo Blue Stockings but also kept blacks out of the majors for over 60 years.

The Negro Leagues provided a top league for black ballplayers in the meantime but robbed the majors of generational and mythical talents like Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, and Cool Papa Bell.

It's the league where Jackie got his baseball start, joining Paige and the Kansas City Monarchs after starring in four different sports at UCLA.

His skill, tenacity and composure caught the eye of Brooklyn Dodgers General Manager Branch Rickey, who signed Robinson after an extensive interview process in 1945 that ensured he would be able to take the onslaught of racial animus that was headed his way.

Not only did Jackie stand strong under the extreme hostility, but he also thrived. After making his debut at 28 years old on April 15, 1947, a day Major League Baseball celebrates every year, Jackie strung together a 10-year Hall of Fame career, including the 1947 Rookie of the Year award, 1949 MVP honors, and a 1955 World Series title — the only championship won by the Dodgers during their 74-year stay in Brooklyn.

Sharon was born three years after Jackie's MLB debut and grew up watching her father in the spotlight.

"He was a devoted husband and a devoted father," Robinson said. "After the baseball days, he was away a lot, he tried to make special time for each of his children. I had father-daughter days in New York City, which is why I love New York City so much."

But her father did far more than partake in America's pastime. After his playing days, he worked tirelessly as a civil rights activist, most notably alongside the likes of Martin Luther King Jr., who visited the Robinson home in 1963.

"His work with the civil rights movement, which consumed a great deal of his passion post-baseball, was something that he brought to our dinner table at night," Robinson said. "It allowed us to talk about it and understand what was going on around the country."

Jackie's 100th birthday is celebrated at a time when America once again is divided on a litany of issues, which have only been inflamed by President Donald Trump. While athletes have taken a central role throughout the process, like Jackie to a lesser extent, Sharon and the Jackie Robinson Foundation continue to support the youth of America with scholarships and support services.

"It is trying times," Robinson added. "And it's confusing for children who are trying to find their voice and their stance on issues ... That's why we're so excited about the Jackie Robinson Museum opening up. It will be a place for a look back into history, but also have a voice ... There will be a lot of ways for children to start recognizing their voice is important, and we'll be there to support them."

D'Angelo Russell bolstering All-Star case

The Nets star is making a run at Charlotte this season.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

D'Angelo Russell has been the Nets' MVP this year. Is he an All-Star, too? REUTERS

The Brooklyn Nets have not had a representative at the NBA All-Star Game since Joe Johnson in 2014. Such is the narrative when you're one of the worst teams in basketball for the better part of the last five years.

Things are changing at the Barclays Center, though, and the Nets are one of the hottest teams in basketball as they've won 20 of their last 26 games dating back to Dec. 7. A win on Tuesday night over the Chicago Bulls delivered the Nets their 28th win of the season. They had 28 wins all of last year and a combined 41 in the two combined seasons before that.

While head coach Kenny Atkinson continues to bring a different culture to Brooklyn, his point guard, D'Angelo Russell, has quickly become the team's most valuable player.

One that is deserving of breaking the draught of All-Star games without a Net.

The 22-year-old is in the midst of a career season under Atkinson, who has a track record of bringing out the most in his point guards. After being written off by the Los Angeles Lakers, who took him second overall in the 2015 draft, Russell is posting 19.5 points and 6.4 assists per game this season, by far his best numbers as a pro.

He's been hitting his stride as of late, especially on the offensive side of the ball, as he's posted 25.4 points per game in his last 10 outings, including a 40-point explosion in Orlando against the Magic on Jan. 18. Russell earned Eastern Conference Player of the Week honors on Jan. 21 and is a strong candidate for Player of the Month as well.

In January, he's putting up 23.7 points with 7.1 assists per game and it's no coincidence that the Nets are 11-3 during that stretch.

"D'Angelo, what can I say?" Atkinson said. "This last month and a half he's been out of his mind. He's just playing great basketball."

Only six point guards in the NBA that have played 39 or more games are averaging more points and assists per game than Russell. Only two of those players in each category play in the Eastern Conference.

With Kyrie Irving and Kemba Walker already named as Eastern Conference starters in the 2019 All-Star Game, which takes place in Charlotte, there are likely four more guard spots left up for grabs. The only other Eastern Conference players who should be locks to make it are Ben Simmons and Bradley Beal.

Russell has outplayed the likes of Eric Bledsoe, Khris Middleton and even Kyle Lowry this season. Toronto's Lowry is the only player of the three that has Russell beat in the big-two statistical categories with 9.4 assists per game.

That sure seems like more than enough to get Russell into the All-Star Game this season.
